

NEW DEFIANCE OF COURTS TOLD BY M'NAB

One trial at Sacramento. Young McNeill is a married man and a father. He is 34 years old. They counted two young girls of excellent middle-class families. Finally ran away with them to Reno. Now, were arrested, Julia and Juliette under the name White Slave act. They were about to be tried when Attorney General McNeill telegraphed District Attorney John L. McNeill to have the trial postponed until Fall.

Resignation His Reply.

McNeill's answer was to forward his resignation to President Wilson by wire and to make the story public.

Meeting last night in San Francisco, it was made known here today, the Federal Grand Jury prepared resolutions on charging the action of Attorney-General McNeill in the Western Food Company and Higgs-Cantwell cases and supporting the course of District Attorney McNeill. The resolutions will be acted upon at the next meeting.

The resolutions passed in the House, and demanding the fullest inquiry into the conduct of McNeill's case, were introduced by Representative (Missouri), an Illinois Progressive, and Representative

Mrs. John H. Hardy, the "Rough Rider," who was Miss Anna McNeill, and Judge Hardy, sailed today on the Hamburg-American liner Spanish for a honeymoon in England. Mrs. Hardy was one of Roosevelt's Spanish War regiment, but is a member of the Arlington Club. "The Rough Riders," all famous lawgivers.

the Mann, father of the very White Slave act under which young Cantwell was indicted.

Republicans and Progressives will insist upon going to the very bottom of the scandal. As at present advised, the Democratic leaders will attempt to check the inquiry. There is no doubt that the Democrats have the necessary votes. They may be swayed from their present course, however, when they hear from the country.

From the other end of the Avenue comes only the word that the White House will not use its "official influence" to check a probe.

Stationers began today to refer to United States Attorney-General McNeill as "the Ballinger of the Wilson administration."

The alleged white slavers are many and their names are prominent. They are married men and fathers—well-to-do citizens of the United States. They are in the country, and are now in the country, and are now in the country. They are in the country, and are now in the country, and are now in the country.

When United States District Attorney John L. McNeill was asked to place Jiggs and Cantwell before a Federal jury, under the Mann White Slave Act, his own was held back by McNeill. The Attorney-General ordered a postponement until October.

Wilson's "Ballinger."

In the scandal raised by the attempt to delay the trial of the white slavers, the public momentary lost sight of the fact that McNeill made the same time had ordered a postponement by McNeill of the trial of officers of the Western Food Company, charged with defrauding the government.

Revolutions in the Western Food case today recalled to Washington minds the career of Richard Archibald Ballinger, by many considered one of the great big "Joan's" of the Taft regime.

While his side with the orders which went out for the postponement of the trial of Directors Sidney Smith and Robert Brown, some intimates of a grand plan, under which the billion dollar land case instituted against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in California by Attorney-General Wickham, are to be made absolute.

A boy giving the name of John Leach of No. 10 Mount Vernon street, eighteen years old, was later arrested and arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering. He was held for the Grand Jury after pleading guilty.

Joseph Burstein was the principal witness today in Victor Schonfeld's suit for damages for slander against Burstein and his wife. Schonfeld, a wealthy Jeweler, says Mrs. Burstein called him "Marius" and so implied that he was a Russian.

Burstein today testified that he knew Schonfeld years ago in Russia, and that then he was known as Levie Marcus. "Twenty years ago," he said, "I met him on Hanover street, and stopped him and asked if he was Levie Marcus. He denied it."

"When my wife came to the United States, she was with her father, Lewis Marcus. Her father, being her father, she was with her father, Lewis Marcus. Her father, being her father, she was with her father, Lewis Marcus."

SIX IMMORAL WOMEN ARE INVOLVED IN NEW CHARGES OF M'NAB

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Additional correspondence between the office of the Attorney General in Washington and the United States Attorney for the Northern District of California has just been made public, as District Attorney John L. McNeill's reply to the statement of Assistant District Attorney General William H. Hays in explanation of the postponement of the trial of two directors of the Western Food Company, accused of conspiracy to defraud the government.

The correspondence related in a third case involving an order from the Attorney General's office that the women were deported had been delayed by federal judges, on the ground that they had entered the United States to follow an innocent calling, he admitted to bail. The deportation orders had been issued by Judge Van Fleet and District.

In a letter written September 27, 1912, District Attorney McNeill informed the assistant Attorney General that the court had denied the women freedom on bail and prosecuted against their being admitted to bail.

On October 12 Assistant Attorney General Hays wrote that he had considered the evidence in the cases and disagreed with the court; that in his judgment the women should have been released on bail.

Women of Lowest Type.

District Attorney McNeill's reply to the letter, made public last night, described the six women as "of the lowest type," and conveyed the information that the roundabout attempt had been made to procure their freedom by bribery of his office.

"Nevertheless," Mr. McNeill said, "the women were not deported, and they are now engaged in their illicit traffic in this city."

TWO HURT BY DERAILMENT OF RANCH SPECIAL

Two men were injured, 200 spectators got a scare, two divisions of the Boston & Maine were tied up and thousands of passengers were delayed for hours by the derailment today of three coaches of the "101 Ranch" special show train on a crossover near East Somerville. The injured were George B. Hutchinson, 45, and living at Katanah, Neb., Thomas Atkinson, 54, of Fiske Hill, N. Y.

Both men belonged to the show. They are at the Massachusetts General Hospital suffering from a general shaking up.

The show was on its way from the Hack Bay grounds to Lynn. Its special train, sets out over the Boston & Albany tracks in two sections of twenty cars. The first section, carrying the horses and animals, arrived safely at Lynn, but when the second section was taking the Boston & Maine tracks at the crossover on the Eastern division three of the middle cars tipped over. The derailed cars carried wagons, tents and culinary equipment. The sleepers, in which were 200 men and women performers and show horses, were just about the derailed coaches and continued to Lynn.

All inbound and outbound trains on the Portland and Eastern divisions were stalled from 8:30 until 10 o'clock and after. Thousands of incoming passengers were forced to walk miles to trolley lines to reach Boston.

GREEN CREW IN CHARGE OF TRAIN THAT CAUSED LATEST MILLER CRASH

WINSTEDT, Ct., June 24.—As a result of yesterday's wreck at Canaan, the New Haven road has another investigation on the books. Though no deaths occurred in the overturning of a passenger coach on the New Haven road which was "skipped" across the Central New England tracks in the path of a freight train, it was reported that the train was "skipped" by Frank Olin, eighty-six, the most seriously injured of the eleven passengers, could not recover.

She regained consciousness early today, but has a fractured skull. One other passenger, Mrs. C. C. Lowery of Clinton County, N. Y., is in a serious condition at a Canaan hotel.

It was estimated at the Canaan offices of the Central New England today that the train was in charge of a green crew and that the train was "skipped" by the train men in charge of the train. The investigation may determine whether the brakes on the train failed to hold or whether they were properly applied by the crew.

CHAFFER UP FOR TRAGEDY IN CAMBRIDGE

While the Highway Safety League, comprising the most prominent men in Boston, are taking steps to drive speedsters off Massachusetts roads, Judge Almy in Cambridge sent William E. Whitcomb, a auto driver, to jail in default of $1,000 bail, after he had been held for the Grand Jury on a charge of manslaughter. Whitcomb, who is twenty-three, drove a motor truck which knocked down and killed William Pratt, thirty-four, in Cambridge a few weeks ago.

In addition Eugene E. Quinn was "tried" of all blame for the death of "Toady" Hall, a son of parliamentarian Herbert Hall of Stoughton. Quinn was driving a motor truck which struck and killed the boy June 12. The truck tilted the boy lay flat in front of the truck and that Quinn could not be blamed.

In Quincy, H. Herbert Derby appeared on a charge of larceny as a result of the "30-mile" walk which ended in the death of Albert H. Tappan, thirty-four, who was held July 10. George E. Derby, whose the police believe to have been the third motorist in the "30-mile" party, was arraigned and held July 10, in $1,000.

The police are searching for George and Magnuson, a chauffeur who is accused of taking Mrs. E. Quinn's car, and forcing her to drive it over a railroad track, so that the car was hit by a train.

The Highway Safety League took definite steps today to combat automobile speed mania.

In every city, village and town the league sent agents for contributions to a $10,000 fund with which to put a stop to the mad and all too frequent use of other kinds of reckless automobile racing.

The officers of the Highway Safety League include: William E. Whitcomb, president; Albert E. Phillips and W. H. Brown, vice presidents; and Lawrence B. Brooks, secretary and treasurer.

FARLOW DENIES MRS. STETSON IS CHURCH HEAD

Alfred Farlow, chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Christian Science Church, in reply to a claim of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson of New York, that she is the head of the church and the "true authority on the teachings of Mrs. Eddy," declared that Mrs. Stetson is not even a member of the church.

"Her position," he said, "is exactly the same as anyone else outside the church. Not being a member, she cannot, of course, be the spiritual head of the church."

Mr. Farlow declared that he doubted very much whether the board of directors would make any reply to Mrs. Stetson's claim.

It is in her book of reminiscences that Mrs. Stetson, who was excommunicated from the church in Boston, in 1900, announces herself as the true head of the church.

Boraski Begs for Mercy as He Dies

Guards Have to Assist Doomed Man to Chair.

Terror-stricken and in a state of collapse Stefan Boraski was led to the death chair in Charlestown State Prison today. At 12:00:30, as he stood a creaking bed in the hand of a priest, the electric current was switched on and Boraski quickly paid the penalty of the brutal murder of Mrs. Rose Cusack at West Abington, September 27, 1911.

After being robbed of her savings, Mrs. Cusack was strangled and then thrown into a well.

Before he left the death cell the condemned man cried and shrieked for mercy and forgiveness. He sank to the floor when the guards came to take him to the death chair. He implored them in the cell not to allow the execution. Boraski had to be half-carried across the corridor to the death chair.

Romance of Miss Holloway and Lieut. Eklund Began in West.

Miss Holloway, daughter of Mr. Ward B. Holloway of Brookline, met Lieut. Eklund in Santa Barbara, Cal., seven years ago. Lieut. Eklund, who was stationed at the time, was about to be transferred to the Charleston Navy Yard.

The wedding will take place to night at No. 1443 Beacon street, Brookline.

BOSTON HAS FIRST PERFECT POLICEMAN

Boston today for the first time has a perfect policeman, an officer who scores 100 points in every department of police duty, according to the examination tests. He is William McLaughlin, who for the past two years a lieutenant attached to Engine 36 in Charlestown.

McLaughlin surprised the examining officials when he scored 100 per cent. in the strength, balance and health tests of the civil service test. The previous highest record was 99 and 100 per cent., which was considered by Commissioner O'Meara and the Civil Service Commission to be a record.

He has the best natural chest expansion record in either police or fire departments in twenty years.

McLaughlin was promoted to transfer to the first class of the police because of the rapid advancement made by his brother-in-law, Special Officer McDonald of the Hanover street station.

KEEL'S HAS STRICTS ON WEEK'S BILL CASTLE SQUARE

To pick out one particular act at Keel's this week as the headline would be to pick out the act of the other officers on one of the best summer bill presented Bostonians last week.

Of course, "The Mysterious" was the third annual appearance received an attention. But the other artists in their particular lines showed the same high class work as did the excellent Schuster, Howard and Weber and quartet.

The "Mysterious" was the first of the week's acts, with a "Mysterious" in the title. The "Mysterious" was the first of the week's acts, with a "Mysterious" in the title. The "Mysterious" was the first of the week's acts, with a "Mysterious" in the title.

THE BILL THIS WEEK AT CASTLE SQUARE

A double bill makes up the program for the last week of John Craig's fifth season at the Castle Square Theatre.

The productions are Charles Hoyt's most famous comedy, "A Trip to China," and "The Open Gate."

The former does not introduce to new audiences, and as played by Mr. Hoyt's company it is even more humorous than ever. Donald Mack appears as "The Open Gate," the "man with one foot in the grave." He keeps the audience in a state of laughter. As Ben Gray, the witty and French boulevardier, Al Hobbins is the second and William F. O'Brien provides himself a well-equipped actor and actor as Washington Gray.

"The Open Gate" is a play for about 20 minutes. Mr. Craig, Miss Colcord, Miss May and Mr. Hall act "The Open Gate" as an entertaining little comedy of suspense and sentiment. All four go thoroughly into the emotions of the play, and Miss Colcord especially is a fine actress.

'THE HOUSE NEXT DOOR' ATTRACTS AT PLYMOUTH

Miss Eleanor Gordon and her company of players gave an excellent presentation of a which should be linked with "The House Next Door" at the Plymouth Theatre last evening. The play has not been seen in Boston for some years but it is not lost the interest of Boston play-goers.

The company is a strong one and the acting a credit to Miss Gordon's efforts. As Clara Oswald, Miss Gordon, was charming. Her manner was easy and she entered into the entire plot with ease. Her partner, Mr. John C. Ward, was exceptionally forceful. He was the master of the part and his easy speaking and acting showed dramatic talent. Douglas J. Wood, as Cecil Caldwell, did well.

His exact age, however, is thought to be 25 and he can be seen singing at the local club house several nights a week. He is known for his long hair and is a member of the local group of sports fans known as the "Studs and Muds." He has been accused a number of times of being a trouble maker and is known to be a trouble maker.

A Mother's Work and Her Hopes

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

This editorial is not written for women. It is written for MEN, and for boys; for the millions who fail to appreciate the work that mothers do, for the millions that ignore the self-sacrifice and devotion upon which society is based.

On a hot night, in the dusty streets of a dirty city, you see hundreds of women sitting in the doorways, TAKING CARE OF BABIES. In lonesome farmhouses, far out on monotonous plains, with the late sun setting on a long day of hard work, you find women, cheerful and persevering, TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

In the middle of the night, in earliest morning, when MEN sleep, all over the world, in ice huts North, in Southern tents, in big houses and in dingy tenements, you find women awake, cheerfully and gladly TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

We respect and praise the man selfishly working for himself.

If he builds up a great industry and a great personal fortune, we praise him.

If he risks his life for personal glory and for praise, we praise him.

If he shows courage even in saving his own carcass from destruction, we praise him.

There was never a man whose courage, or devotion, could be compared with that of a woman caring for her baby.

The mother's love is unselfish, and it has no limit this side of the grave.

You will find ONE man in a thousand who will risk his life for a cause.

You will find a THOUSAND women in a thousand who will risk their lives for their babies.

Everything that a man has and is he owes to his mother. From her he gets health, brain, encouragement, moral character, and ALL his chances of success.

How poorly the mother's service is repaid by men individually, and by society as a whole!

The individual man feels that he has done much if he gives sufficient money and a LITTLE attention to her who brought him from nothingness into life and sacrificed her sleep and youth and strength for his sake.

Society, the aggregate of human beings, feels that its duty is done when a few hospitals are opened for poor mothers, and a little medicine doled out in cold-hearted fashion to the sick child.

Fortunately, it may truly be said that the great man is almost always appreciative of his greater mother.

Napoleon was cold, jealous of other men, monumentally egotistical when comparing himself with other sons of women. But he revered and appreciated the noble woman who bore him, lived for him, and watched over him to the end. He said:

"It is to my mother, to her good principles, that I owe my success and all I have that is worth while. I do not hesitate to say that the future of the child depends on the mother."

The future of the individual child depends on the individual mother, and the future of the race depends on the mothers of the race.

Think what has been done for mankind by thousands of millions of perfectly devoted mothers.

Every mother is entirely DEVOTED, entirely HOPEFUL, entirely CONFIDENT that no future is so great for her baby's destiny.

The little head—often hopelessly ill-chaped—rolls about feebly on the thin neck devoid of muscles. The toothless gums chew whatever comes along. The wondering eyes look feebly, aimlessly about, without focus or concentration. The future human being, to the cold-blooded onlooker, is a useless little atom added to the human sea of nonentity.

But to the mother that baby is the marvel of all time. There is endless meaning in the first mumbings, endless soul in the senile, baby smile, unlimited possibilities in the knobby forehead and round, hairless head. She sees in the future of the baby responsibilities of government, and feels that one so perfectly lovely must eventually be acclaimed ruler by mankind.

As a result of perfect confidence in its future, the mother gives to every baby perfect devotion, perfect and affectionate moral education. Each child begins life inspired by the most beautiful example of altruism and self-sacrifice.

Kindness has gradually taken the place of brutality among human beings, because every baby at its birth has found itself surrounded by absolute kindness.

The mother's kindness forms moral character.

The mother's confidence and encouragement stimulate ambition and inspire courage.

The mother's patient watchfulness gives good health, and fights disease when it comes.

The mother's wrathful protection shields the child from the stern and dwarfing severity of fathers.

Truly, a man may and should be judged by his feeling toward his own mother, and toward the mothers of other men—of ALL MEN.

In the character of Christ, whose last earthly thought on Golgotha was for His Mother, as in the character of the hardworking, ignorant man whose earnings go to make his mother comfortable, the most beautiful trait is devotion to the mother who suffers and works for her children, from the hours that precede their birth through all the years that they spend on earth together.

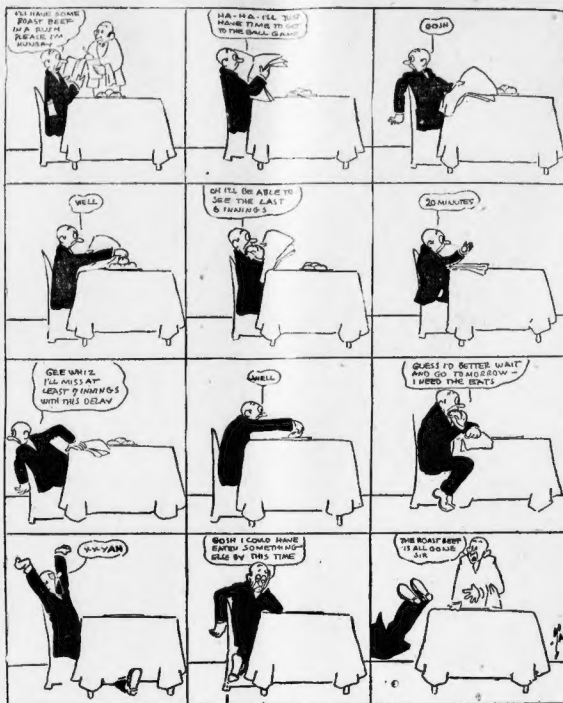

Honor thy father and thy MOTHER.

And honor the mothers of other men. Make their task easier through fair payment of the men who support the children, through good public schools for their children, through respectful treatment of ALL women.

The mother is happy. For she knows "the deep joy of loving some one else more than herself."

You honor yourself, and prove yourself worthy of a good mother and of final success, when you do something for the mothers of the world.

The Great Capitals of Space Are Now Before

Suns That Seem to Struggle

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

YOU would be ashamed if you could not point out on a map of the earth the location of London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, St. Petersburg, Constantinople, Calcutta, Peking and Tokio. You would feel that you were disgracefully ignorant if you did not know something about the character and appearance of these great foreign cities, even if you had never visited them.

But over your heads on these Summer nights shine many of the sun-captals of the universe, every one in plain sight, every one magnificent to look upon, every one different from all the others—and yet how many of them can you recognize? How many of them do you know by name, or by appearance and surroundings?

Yet the geography of the heavens is easier to learn than that of the earth, and this is a good time to begin. Just now, about 9 o'clock at night, there are no great planets (which are likely to be confused with stars) visible to puzzle the beginner in learning the real stars.

Here is a little chart which will help you. It represents the whole ca, but looking larger because it is not so far away. Professor Simon Newcomb estimated its real brightness at about a thousand times that of the sun.

Rather low down in the west shines the star Regulus, a vast sun in the constellation Leo, some of whose other stars are so placed as to imitate the form of a sickle.

Away over in the northeast your eye will catch the glitter of an exceedingly beautiful star named Vega, in the constellation LYRA. It is another of the giants. With a glass it shows a brilliant blue-white color, perhaps the most beautiful in the sky. Because of its brilliancy Vega might be called the Parilla of the Sky.

In the Northwest is Capella, in the Constellation Auriga

Low in the northwest you will see Capella, in the constellation Auriga. Just settling and flaming magnificently on the horizon. The spectroscopic shows that Capella closely resembles our sun in constitution, but it is more than a hundred times brighter as many. To the right of Capella are the visible heavens at 9 o'clock in the evening. The top is north, the bottom south, the right-hand side the east and the left-hand side the west. The center is the point overhead.

Spica, in the Constellation Virgo, Lies Southward on Meridian

Look first toward the south. There you see, right on the meridian, a bright white star less than half way from the horizon to the point overhead. It is Spica in the constellation Virgo. It is a sun probably thousands of times brighter than ours. How do we know that? By comparing the amount of light that it sends us with the light of the sun, and then remembering that the intensity of light falls off as the square of the distance. Put the sun a thousand times as far away as it really is and its light would be a million times less than it now appears.

But Spica is at least two million times as far away as the sun, and we know that at that distance the sun would be invisible, except with the telescope, for its light would be diminished four million-million times! Yet Spica, at that distance, is still a bright star to the naked eye.

Or in the eastern quarter, close to the horizon, you catch a brilliant red gleam. It comes from star Antares, in the constellation Scorpio. That, too, is one of the giant suns, and a telescope shows that it has a smaller BRIGHT GREEN sun near it!

Nearly overhead, east of the zenith, you see the great star Arcturus, in the constellation Bootes. It is another monstrous sun, probably not as large as Spica, twin stars Castor and Pollux, in the constellation Gemini. If our sun were near either of them it would fall a captive, like a child in the hands of a giant, for it is much smaller than they are. North of the point overhead is the Great Dipper, formed by seven stars of the constellation Ursa Major, and the outer pair in the bowl of the "Dipper" point directly to the North or Pole Star, around which the whole heavens appear to swing. This star, too, is of enormous actual size, although it does not appear as bright as many of the others.

At least two of the great stars mentioned have very remarkable companions. Spica is attended by a huge dark, or invisible, star, with which it swings swiftly round and round like a black and white wrestler striving to trip each other. The companion sun of Capella is not dark, but so closely are they grappled that only the spectroscopic is able to show that there are two of them.

Whether Struggling Suns Have Met Cannot Be Answered

Whether these struggling suns have accidentally met or were created together, is a question that cannot now be answered. I am doing you a kindness when I advise you to go out the first fair night and make acquaintance with these wonders of the sky, for no one ever studied, or even looked at, the universe without feeling the debt for it. Aratus, the Greek, declared more than two thousand years ago that "from all quarters the heavens SPRAKE to man," and you will find that it is strictly so.
